UDILR LUNCHTIME SERIES PORTRAYS LINCOLN, WRIGHT AND SCENES FROM MEN'S LIVES

DAYTON, Ohio — The lives of Abraham Lincoln, Katharine Wright and older men will be portrayed during a lunchtime lecture series sponsored by the University of Dayton's Institute for Learning in Retirement.

The lunchtime sessions are from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in UD's McGinnis Center multipurpose room, and all are free and open to the public. No registration is necessary, participants are asked only to bring a lunch. For more information, call (937) 229-2605.

This year's series begins Wednesday, Feb. 20, with a portrayal of Abraham Lincoln by Springboro resident Jim Crabtree. On Wednesday, March 20, Beavercreek resident Betty Darst will bring to life the character of Katharine Wright, sister of Dayton's famous flight brothers Orville and Wilbur.

The series will close Wednesday, April 17, with "The Bitter and the Sweet: Scenes from Men's Lives." Conrad L'Heureux, professor of religious studies at UD, will perform short vignettes from the lives of men who are facing the issues that arise in the later stages of life. L'Heureux uses original material as well as that from playwrights to explore life, love, loss and connection.
